WATSON PRODUCTIONS EXPANDS LONG ISLAND HEADQUARTERS

Hauppauge, New York – February 2, 2009 – Watson Productions, a designer and manufacturer of trade show exhibits, has expanded its Long Island facility by 10,000 square feet to enable businesses to warehouse their exhibit properties and promotional materials when exhibiting in New York.

"As a trade show and event solutions partner, we recognize the importance of businesses continuing their participation in trade shows and corporate events. Strategically, it's essential that they continue to exhibit and market their products and services during this economic slowdown; it reinforces their financial stability and helps to maintain market share. With the expansion of our facility, we are able to warehouse exhibit properties and collateral materials helping businesses to reduce shipping and storage expenses when in New York," said Bob Watson, President and CEO.

Watson Productions is a full service exhibit design and experiential firm that transforms corporate messages into a unique visual experience for trade show, retail, and event planners. As a client centered firm with long term relationships, Watson Productions provides educational programs, full convention service and event support from concept to conclusion.
